

Community Cooking School: Crossing

Fall 2019 / DIS Study Abroad / Copenhagen, Denmark / Prof. Marie-Louise Holst

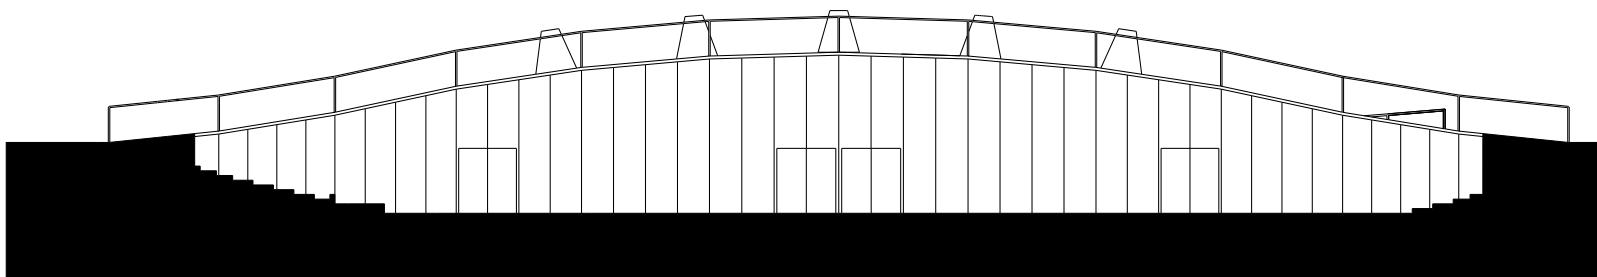

This project is a community cooking school in an urban square in Copenhagen. It seeks to reconcile the monumental axis between the two ends of the square with the actual use of the square which is chaotic and focused on the edges. A green roof creates a continuous landscape along this axis while plazas on either side enclose the edge areas. The school itself is organized around a hearth which serves as a central gathering place and hub of circulation on both the building and urban scales, with the activities of the school connected directly to the urban plazas.

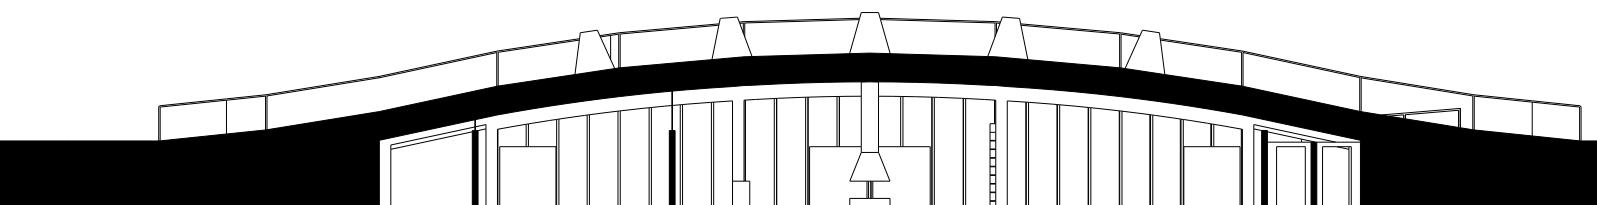

GROUND FLOOR

NORTH ELEVATION (SOUTH SIMILAR)

LONGITUDINAL SECTION